Wisconsin's Bandit Terror in the Hands of the Law.

His Capture Cleverly Effected by Two Officers.

He Confesses that He is the Lone Highwayman.

Convincing Evidence Found on His Person.

[illegible] Bart Captured.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Aug. 31.—"Black Bart," the lone highwayman of Wisconsin, was captured at Republic this morning. Particulars of the capture have not yet been received. He is the man who on Monday noon held up the Gogebic stage. There were four prominent people in it, Donald Mackerchar, of the First National bank, of Minneapolis, A. G. Flerschbein, of Belleville, Ill., Robert Rintoul, of the Bank of Montreal, Chicago, and Wm. Paddon, also of Chicago. When he stopped the stage and demanded that the party "cash in," one of th[illegible] began firing at him. The robber returned fire. Mackerchar was badly wounded, but will recover. Flerschbein was hit twice and fell out of the coach, while the horses dashed away with the rest of the party. The robber went through him and disappeared. Three hours later Flerschbein was picked up and cared for, but died that night. Parties with bloodhounds were at once organized and a systematic hunt begun, which ended as stated. Black Bart's real name is Ray and Holzhey. He has been a terror to the whole country side, holding up stages, or railroad trains or individuals indiscriminately.

THE CAPTURE.

MARQUETTE, Mich., August 31.—The south bound Milwaukee and Northern train from Champion reached Republic at 2.15 o'clock. Deputy Sheriff Glode stepped aboard the train and arrested a man who answers in every particular the description of the highwayman who held up the Gogebic stage. He will be brought here this afternoon. When the officer made the arrest the man drew a revolver upon him but was promptly knocked down and handcuffs clapped on. The man now confesses that he is the man wanted for the Gogebic stage robbery. Convincing evidence was found on his person in the shape of three pocketbooks, one belonging to Flerschbein and bearing his name. He also had three revolvers and three gold watches.

MARQUETTE, Mich., August 31.—Reinhold Holzhey, the Gogebic stage robber, was captured at Republic in this county this morning. The method by which the capture was effected was as clever and neat as the bandit's own exploits have been daring and astounding. There is no doubt whatever that Holzhay is the man who startled the entire north-west [illegible] two months ago by a single handed robbery on the through train on the Milwaukee & Northern railroad at [illegible] Junction and levied tribute on a score or more of passengers; that four weeks later rode up to a store in a small country [illegible] and, at the muzzle of the revolver compelled the proprietor to contribute the contents of his safe, and still later held up a train on the Wisconsin Central railway.

Holzhey was brought to this city at 2 p. m. to-day and incarcerated in the county jail. To an [illegible] reporter he said he had made for the thickets, woods immediately after the stage robbery. He pushed rapidly eastward and struck the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railway, about fifty miles this side of Nestoria. There he [illegible] a [illegible] and rode to Champion, the northern terminus of the Milwaukee and Northern. [illegible] Republic is ten miles south of Champion, and to that point Holzhey made his way afoot. He applied at the [illegible] public house for lodging and was assigned to a room. It was about 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he arrived there. He ate supper and an hour later was shown to his room. The landlord observed striking harmony with the description of the Gogebic stage robber, and informed the village marshal, who had also been notified by E. P. Weiser, a justice of the peace who had met the man on the street. The marshal notified Deputy Sheriff John Glode and together they went to the [illegible]. Finding the landlord also [illegible] suspicious, [illegible] own suspicions were confirmed, but they decided not to disturb the stranger in his room. They were certain he was well armed and would shoot if disturbed. It was therefore [illegible] best to wait until morning, and the plan of capture was quickly determined upon.

Holzhey [illegible] at six o'clock, ate a light breakfast and paid his bill. He had a checkered quilt rolled up and bound with a small rope. In this improvised grip he carried a change of clothing. Slinging the bundle over his shoulder he started off, intending to make for the Wisconsin lumber camps. The officers were awaiting his appearance on the street. They were dressed in citizen clothing to avoid arousing suspicion. As Holzhey approached them they walked toward him, apparently engaged in earnest conversation and paying no attention to the stranger at all. When they [illegible] near they parted to allow Holzhey to pass between them. No sooner were they abreast than the officers seized their man, one at each shoulder, and threw him to the pavement. Holzhey struggled and tried to reach his hip pocket, nearly succeeding in doing so. At that moment Policeman Whalen came up and with his stick gave the prostrate man a rap on the head which quieted him and he made no further resistance. Handcuffs were then applied, and the terror of northern Wisconsin and Michigan was secure in the hands of the law. A purse found on Holzhey's person bore the name of A. Flerschbein in large letters on the inside cover. Flerschbein was the man who was killed during the attack upon the stage.

Henry Shaw's Funeral.

ST. LOUIS, August 31.—The late Henry Shaw, of Botanical Garden fame was buried this afternoon from Christ's church, 13th and Locust streets. There was a tremendous [illegible] of people to witness the venerable philanthropist's funeral. Bishop Tuttle conducted the services. The honorary pall bearers included Gov. [illegible] Francis, Mayor Noonan and many other distinguished citizens of the city and state. The remains were deposited in the mausoleum in the gardens, which Mr. Shaw had built, as his last resting place.

New Bank for Pueblo.

WASHINGTON, August 31.—The American National bank of Pueblo, Colorado, has been authorized to commence business with a capital of $100,000.

Train R[illegible] are Bound Over.

SALT LAKE, Utah, August 31.—The train robbers were bound over in the sum of $1,000 each to the grand jury and went to the penitentiary in default of bail.

The New Cruiser.

WASHINGTON, August 31.—Cramp Brothers of Philadelphia have notified the navy department that they will launch the new cruiser Philadelphia on the 7th of September.

Killed at a Fire.

SCRANTON CITY, Pa., August 31.—One of the large buildings of the American Wood Paper company burned this morning. A wall fell killing Oliver Minshower and injuring several others.

Mrs. Maybrick's Prison Life.

LONDON, August 31.—Mrs. Maybrick is permitted by the authorities to take exercise in the prison yard. Her health is improving. She maintains a cool demeanor and seems to be settling in the routine of convict life.

George Francis Train's Fast.

NEW YORK, August 31.—George Francis Train, who has been practically fasting since April 18, taking during the last two months only a little chocolate and berries, has about decided to break his fast. Fruits, he says, do not furnish strength like berries. He proposes to breakfast on baked beans.

Securing the Jury.

CHICAGO, August 31.—About twenty talesmen were examined to-day. When court adjourned this evening the case was still without a single juror who had been definitely accepted. Three men who have been examined by each side have been [illegible]. All of these are yet subject to examination and challenge.

[illegible] Purch[illegible]

WASHINGTON, August 31.—Since August 3rd, 1887, to and including to-day, the treasury department has purchased $77,305,350 four per cent bonds and $118,185,350 four and a half per cent bonds, or a total of $195,490,700. Their cost was $226 862,875, and the government has saved by their purchase before maturity $42,871,486.

Large [illegible]

WASHINGTON, August 31.—It is estimated at the treasury department that owing to large pension payments, nearly eighteen millions coming on top of other large payments in July, the debt statement will show the public debt has increased about a million and a half during August.

Weather In[illegible]

WAR DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 31, 10 p. m.

Indications for twenty four hours commencing [illegible], Sept. 1, at 7 a. m. For Colorado: Fair, cooler in northwest. Stationary temperature in the southern portion; cooler Monday; southerly winds becoming variable.

M[illegible] N[illegible]

CITY OF MEXICO, via Galveston August 31.—Eight persons lost their lives by the floods of Zimapan, in the state of Hidalgo.

A milk factory is being established at Guadalajara.

Engineers have commenced work on the bar at Tampico.

[illegible] Appointments.

DEER PARK, Md., August 31.—The following appointments were [illegible] to-night from the summer executive quarters: John C. Watson, of Nebraska, attorney for Alaska; Willis Van Devanter, of Wyoming, chief justice, Wheelock G. Veazey, of Vermont, inter-state commerce commissioner.

Killed by Burglars.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., August 31.—At Montvalla last night John Lawrence saw a light in his [illegible] and went to see about it. Burglars were inside and opened on him with pistols. He fired three times, but when all was over the burglars were gone and Lawrence lay dead shot through the heart. One man has been arrested, charged with the offense.

A [illegible] T[illegible] [illegible] Secured.

BOSTON, August 31.—Ferdinand A. Lyman the financier and banker, and Walter Potter sailed for England today, having secured control for an English syndicate of all tanneries in New England and New York. For this purpose ten million dollars has been pledged. If this proves a success it is intended to invest fifty millions more and take all the tanneries in the country, and all to be operated as one great concern. It is said the saving to be made under this system will revolutionize the tanning trade.

An U[illegible] Suicide.

DETROIT, Mich., August 31.—A tall, heavily built man about 45 years of age, registered at the Griswold house as J. McEvoy, Chicago, committed suicide this morning. Near the body was found a piece of paper stating that his true name is James Egan, formerly of 196 Madison street, Chicago. A report circulated that the suicide was connected with the Cronin murder. No confirmation of that statement has been made however. It is also stated that the gentleman had recently been released from an asylum [illegible] Detroit.

Chicago's A[illegible]

CHICAGO, August 31.—Proceedings tending to test the legality of the recent election by which surrounding suburbs were annexed to Chicago were had in the circuit court to-day. Treasurer True, of the annexed town of Lakeview, had begun suit to compel the county treasurer to turn over to him, as treasurer of Lakeview, taxes collected up in the end of the new Chicago on the theory that the recent annexation was unconstitutional. Arguments were heard to-day on that point, and the court decided against Mr. True. An appeal was taken to the supreme court of the state, and will come before that tribunal in October next. In case the annexation is declared unconstitutional the decision will apply to all of the other suburbs recently annexed.

CAPITAL AND LABOR.

London Strikers Firm and Their Numbers Increasing.

The Movement Developing Into an Organized Crusade.

Commercial Circles Favor the Poorly-Paid Laborers.

Public Feeling Deep. Subscriptions Affording Relief.

The [illegible] Strike.

LONDON, August 31.—Conferences are still in progress between the strikers and employers. John Burns addressed the men this morning. He said victory was nearer than had been deemed possible a few hours ago. Men along the lower reaches of the Thames were coming out, and the belief was becoming general that the end was near.

LONDON, August 31.—No settlement of the strike is possible to-day. The dock companies express a willingness to consider further authorized proposals from the men.

LONDON, August 31.—Burns has obtained consent of the strikers to authorize their leaders to agree upon what the leaders think desirable to accept.

LONDON, August 31.—It is stated that the management of the Albert docks have practically conceded the demands of the strikers contained in the compromise proposals submitted last evening. Iron workers at Erith in Kent have struck. Mechanic crews on the Northwestern railway demand five per cent increase in wages.

Burns held a conference with the dock companies to-day and submitted the compromise proposition agreed upon last night, stating that the wharfingers endorsed it. The dock companies have [illegible] a statement in conjunction with the wharfingers to the effect that they have carefully considered the proposition and are unable to accept it, and denying that the wharfingers had [illegible] to it.

LONDON, August 31.—Directors of the dock companies have [illegible] declined to make any concessions beyond what have been already offered, and matters remain in statu quo. The strike committee met late to-night and decided to withdraw their appeal for a general strike, and to substitute an appeal to trades at home and abroad for financial help to continue the struggle.

[illegible] OF THE STRIKE.

LONDON, August 31.—The long smouldering discontent of laborers in the [illegible] docks received a strong stimulus by the revelations before the lords' committee on "sweating" last year. Leaders of the labor movement, seizing the opportunity, vigorously prosecuted the campaign in the east end and fanned the embers of discontent until the dock men roused from the lethargy induced by their sordid surroundings, submitted to the guidance of Burns and other active spirits, their concerted action leading to the present crisis. Continuance of the strike for [illegible] days and the strikers' determined attitude now show that the leaders carefully calculated the probable course of the movement before notice of the strike was formally given.

Interviews had to-day with functionaries whose duties bring them into daily contact with dockmen and the [illegible] of allied employments, show that for years past the condition of the dock men's families has been as bad as any of the worst cases [illegible] before the "sweating" committee." Local radical clubs and other organizations are fully alive to the importance of striking while the iron is hot. They are greatly assisted by lecturers and by a house-to-house propaganda intended to foment discontent and forward what in view of to-night's situation and the striking committee's latest manifesto promises to develop into an organized crusade against capital.

The strikers adhere to their full demands, though the countenances of many who enter and depart from the relief committee rooms plainly reveal sharp privation. Public feeling is deep both in the east end and in the city. Commercial circles strongly favor the strikers, and local sympathy is actively exerted in various public subscriptions to afford practical relief. To-day employes of Borrow & Co., who are under heavy contract to supply the government with torpedo appliances struck, while 5000 iron workers at the Isle of Dogs have [illegible] out for an advance of six pence. The idlers in the strike number 110,000. As the immediate sequence of their cessation, 23,000 stevedores, 6000 lightermen, 3000 clerks and nearly 50,000 grain weighers and laborers are compulsorily idle. A mass meeting of dock men will be held in Hyde park to-morrow.

Ex[illegible] in a Wreck.

MIDDLEBURY, Vt., August 31.—An excursion train and a stock train collided last night near Brooksville. Both engines, one car and a part of another car of the excursion train and 10 or 12 stock cars loaded with hogs were wrecked. Engineer [illegible] of the passenger train saw the other locomotive coming round a curve, put on the air brake, pushed the fireman from the cab, remained with his hand on the lever till the last, and was killed at his post. Following is a list of the killed and injured. Killed—Conductor Hiram Bledgett of Northfield, aged 45; Engineer William Emery of St. Albans, Vt., 40 years old, W. W. Allen, fireman, of Vergennes. Injured—James Hunt, aged 17, New Haven, leg crushed, severe bruises about the head. Charles Hunt, brother, aged 19, leg broken, injured internally; Henry Berna of St. Albans, fireman, compound fracture of right leg. Conductor Dutton, seriously injured.

W[illegible]

CHEYENNE, Wy., August 31.—The constitutional convention of Wyoming meets in Cheyenne Monday morning. It will be composed of fifty-five delegates. Among the most important questions that these gentlemen will discuss will be the recognition of God, woman suffrage, limitation of the power of corporations, limitation in the [illegible] of state and municipal indebtedness and apportionment of representation in the legislature. M[illegible] of the delegates will arrive this evening and on Sunday. Secretary Meldrum says that [illegible] of the delegates to the convention hold certificates of election. Only three counties certified the result of the special election to the territorial secretary, who says he [illegible] not propose to allow the d[illegible] [illegible] those counties an opportunity to put on airs over the other members and hence [illegible] certificates. He thinks however that the members will carry some sort of credentials showing that they are entitled to a seat in the convention. There is but little talk on the chairmanship. Ex-Governor Hoyt is the most prominent gentleman yet mentioned for the position. He is thoroughly known and a very practical and able man.

Malietoa's Return.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 31.—Among the passengers who arrived on the steamer Zealander to-day from the Australian colonies via Samoa was Lieut. W. R. Rose of the United States store ship Monongahela now stationed at Pago Pago. He reports the Adams had not arrived at Samoa when the Zealander left there, on the 17th inst., but she was expected every day. It was on this account that Admiral Kimberly did not leave for San Francisco on the Zealander. He expects to return next month. King Malietoa and several chiefs who were deposed with him by the Germans two years ago arrived at Apia from Marshall Islands on the German gunboat Wolff a few days before the Zealander arrived at Samoa. Malietoa's return was made the occasion of general rejoicing by the natives. His health is reported to be broken down owing to his long exile, and for this reason he will not attempt to assume control of affairs for the present, and Mataafa will still continue in office. The political situation on the islands remains quiet. The natives are also recovering from the famine. The M[illegible] some time ago distributed among them 15,000 pounds of bread and a large quantity of rice and other provisions.

Affairs at H[illegible]

SAN FRANCISCO, August 31.—The steamer Zealander arrived from Australia, New Zealand and Honolulu this afternoon. It was considered probable here that Admiral Kimberly would arrive from Samoa, but the steamer brought no passengers. Advices from Honolulu state that affairs have been quiet there since the revolution of July 30. Robert Wilcox, leader of the insurgents, and others who were arrested were given a preliminary examination in the police court on the charge of [illegible], conspiracy, riot and unlawful assembly, and committed for trial at the next term of the supreme court. The second battalion of Hawaiian volunteers, comprising all native corps except the king's guard, has been disbanded and their arms returned to the government. It is understood this action was based upon a report made by W. S. Wood, adjutant, in which he declares he was unable to bring forward any men of his command at the time of the insurrection. Many were in sympathy with the insurgents and a number of them were actually with the party who attacked the palace.

The U. S. man of war Nipsic which arrived at Honolulu from Samoa last month is now undergoing repairs.

The Honolulu Commercial Advertiser denies the [illegible] that United States Consul General Severance was not received there by King Kalakaua and says on the contrary that Severance was cordially received by the king.

[illegible] Market.

NEW YORK, August 31.—The stock market again gave evidence of growth of the bullish feeling to-day, and a very moderate volume of business scored a further fractional advance, the close being practically at about the highest prices of the week. A great feature of to-day was the [illegible] rise and activity in Hocking Valley securities. It became [illegible] that at a meeting of directors the resignation of P[illegible] Shaw was accepted and O. Walsh [illegible] in his place and arrangements made to pay interest coming due on Sept. 1, while the [illegible] on the board. The list is almost invariably higher to-night, and Hocking Valley is up 8 and Burlington 1½ per cent.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., August 31.—It was generally believed this morning that bail in the sum of $3,000 would be entered to-day for Mrs. Hamilton. She will, however, remain a prisoner at May's Landing over Sunday anyway. Hamilton, who left Atlantic City this morning, returned this evening. He will spend the night with his child at Noll cottage. Dr. Crosby, the physician attending Nurse Donnelly, whose recovery this evening declared his patient constantly improving and out of danger. Prosecutor Thompson takes exception to the terms used by Dr. Crosby when he says "I now consider her out of all danger." Mr. Thompson says he must have a qualified certificate that the patient is entirely out of danger from Dr. Crosby, and also an examination and certificate by one other physician whom he shall select before he will consent to bailing the prisoner.

Go[illegible] Telegraph S[illegible]

WASHINGTON, August 31.—Postmaster General Wanamaker and President Norvin Green had a consultation last evening respecting the telegraph service furnished the government by the Western Union Telegraph company. While details of the plan have not be arranged it is understood satisfactory progress is being made toward rates under the lines laid down by the postmaster general. The question of rates to the government for telegraph service is the point at issue, but by no means the principal question as Postmaster General Wanamaker's plans contemplate considerable enlargement of the functions of the postoffice department in the direction of co-operation with telegraph [illegible] cheaper and better [illegible] of a postal telegraph is being [illegible], but no confirmation of it is obtainable.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, August 31.—Last night Eben Garcia, a wood seller who lives at the Tomate ranch, and Larcepa Saldivdar, mistress of Eugenia Dargas, the corporal or manager for Mr. Cottingham, were killed at Morr[illegible]y's ranch by some unknown party. They were found in the house of Dargas lying one in front of the other, shot through the [illegible]. Garcia's pistol lay by his side. Evidently a terrible and mysterious crime has been committed. Sheriff Bitto, County Attorney Coleya and Dr. Macy went out to investigate the [illegible].

BEWARE!

Don't Go Three Miles Out in the Country for Lots, when you can get them for the Same Money in PARRISH'S ADDITION!

Only 3 Blocks from Cascade Avenue!
Only 3 Blocks from The Antlers Hotel!
Only 4½ Blocks from Post Office!

THE STREETS IN PARRISH'S ADDITION

Are 100 to 140 feet in width. THE ALLEYS are all 20 feet wide. There are no 60 or 80 feet streets, and narrow, 10-feet alleys, such as are found in other loudly advertised "Additions," with high sounding titles, where you pay high prices for lots, without duly considering that you are throwing away your money.

In the Alley Behind Every Lot in Parrish's Addition

There is a 3-inch Water Pipe, connected at Chestnut street with a 16-inch main; the Largest in the City's System. THE MAIN CITY DITCH, taking pure, clear water from the Fountain, runs just back of PARRISH'S ADDITION, and within a stone's throw of it.

YOU ARE SURE TO GET WATER

(Both from Pipes and Ditch) in PARRISH'S ADDITION if there is any water in the Fountain, even if other parts of the city are suffering from scarcity of the precious fluid.

REMEMBER THE FOREGOING, and then, when I tell you I will sell you a First-Class

LOT IN PARRISH'S ADDITION FOR $350

To $1,000 a full size lot 50 by 190 feet do not hesitate a moment about buying. You can buy two lots on a corner, and erect pretty little cottages across them, giving each cottage a neat, pretty little yard, and readily rent them, owing to the location, etc.,

To Pay You 25 to 35 Per Cent Per Annum on the Entire Investment.

WHERE CAN YOU DO THIS ELSEWHERE?

The Street Car Line Runs Through PARRISH'S ADDITION, from East to West, and will doubtless soon be extended to the North, past the "Mesa Road," up to THE ROCK ISLAND SHOPS. Lots are sold on Terms to Suit Buyers, if [illegible]

I AM ALSO SELLING

LOTS IN CALVERT HEIGHTS!

On Easy Terms, and at from $300 to $400. They bear [illegible] much the same relation [illegible]

COLORADO CITY,

As do Parrish Addition Lots to Colorado Springs, and

I CAN RECOMMEND THEM AS AN INVESTMENT!

SURE TO PAY A BIG PROFIT
DURING THE COMING YEAR.

CALVERT HEIGHTS [illegible]

Is surrounded by growing and progressive enterprises. THE MIDLAND SHOPS lie at its Northeast corner. Colorado City proper is North and Northeast of it. Bott's Additions join it on the North and Northwest. Colorado Springs itself is in full view, only two miles to the Southeast, and last though not least important,

The ✶ Great ✶ Glass ✶ Manufacturing ✶ Works

Are erected or in operation just south of CALVERT HEIGHTS. I have arranged to have every lot supplied with PURE WATER IN PIPES.

THE LOCATION IS SUPERB!
THE SURROUNDING VIEWS ARE MAGNIFICENT!

☞ Last year I recommended you to buy lots in Parrish's Addition, and they have paid a better Profit than any other lots on the market. This year I urge you to add to Your Investments as Many Lots in CALVERT HEIGHTS as you can afford to buy, with the result that before the year is out, you will again be glad that you have taken my advice.

CALL EARLY! [illegible]

There are not very many lots altogether, and those who [illegible] will find them all gone, and will have to Pay an Advance.

Some idea of the number of postal cards used by the people of this country may be judged by the statement that Daggett, the Brooklyn man who secured the contract for furnishing them, will be called upon to turn out about 2,000,000,000 in the four years during which his contract will run.

There was a good deal of talk some days ago about Colonel Dudley being afraid to go through Indiana on his way to the Milwaukee encampment. This was a pretty story but Assistant District Attorney Cockrum rather takes the point out of it by saying that there is nothing in the cases against Colonel Dudley either in fact or in law; that the grand jury did not return an indictment; and that there is no warrant out for his arrest nor will there be one issued on the charges.

The grand jury which meets in New York to-morrow will have its attention called to the fraudulent Flack divorce case, and it is not unlikely that an indictment may be returned against the sheriff. In the event of his conviction or resignation some interesting developments may be expected in New York city politics. Tammany leaders are already suggesting the name of Flack's under sheriff and intimate friend Sexton. If Tammany nominates Sexton it can hardly expect the [illegible] of the party to support their candidate under the circumstances and the defeat of the braves would be almost sure to follow.

Henry Washington Jackson is the full name of a Philadelphia man who is making a great noise because President Harrison has not chosen him to fill a snug office in the customs department for which he applied. Jackson [illegible] of the fact that he had been in the army during the war, and that in refusing him Harrison was not treating an old soldier exactly right. Even if Jackson is an old soldier, it does not follow that he is entitled to a government office solely on that ground: but the noise he has made has caused [illegible] to look up his record, and it is not one to be very proud of, or one that offers the very highest recommendation for the man who owns it. It seems that this so-called old soldier was in the army for exactly nineteen days. During that time he is said to have had a clean record, but his bright career was brought to an abrupt end. He grew tired of his brass buttons and his jacket, forgot his patriotism and deserted. It is hard to think of a man bearing the two illustrious names of Washington and Jackson as a deserter, but the records show him up in that light. It is not unlikely that the president will not be bothered again with this "old soldier."

It will be very interesting to note the position taken by prohibitionists in the coming campaign in New York. In the call for the democratic convention to be held at Syracuse the party leaders took pains to state in terms that the [illegible] could hardly misunderstand that the liquor interests were especially invited to be represented in that body. Party organs in that state headed by the Albany Argus are now making a special effort to show that the democratic party has always been the friend of the rum interests. David B. Hill stood on a rum platform last fall and was elected by a large majority. Remembering his success, it is not strange that his party should again place their reliance in the votes of the rum power. The strange part about it is the fact that prohibitionists still continue to assist this party, which not only uses every means to defeat all efforts in the direction of temperance, but openly [illegible] of it. The issue on the temperance question last fall in New York was squarely drawn, and yet the prohibitionists aided the rum element. It is probable that the issue will again this year be a leading one, and there is every probability that the prohibitionists will again be found aiding the enemies of the [illegible] of temperance.

During the civil war in the United States there were three prominent Englishmen who promptly and vigorously threw their influence on the side of the union when there was a strong current of sympathy in official circles in favor of the confederacy. They were John Stuart Mill, John Bright and Thomas Hughes. The only one of these now living—Thomas Hughes, the author of "Tom Brown at Rugby"—has spent much of his time in the United States and identified himself with us in many ways, notably by establishing an English colony at Rugby, Tenn., and by showing himself an appreciative student of our institutions. Now Mr. Hughes, although a liberal, writes an appeal to the American people through the pages of the September Forum for them to stand by the English cause against the Irish agitators, as he stood by the union cause against secession. Mr. Thos. G. Shearman, the well known free trader, makes a mathematical calculation in the [illegible] number of the magazine to show that our present rate of indirect taxation is sufficient to strip the poor of three fourths of their natural savings, and to concentrate a majority of the wealth of the community in the hands of an infinitesimally small part of its number—about 31,000 out of more than 60,000,000.

TO HIS HORSE

Come, my beauty! come, my desert darling!
On my shoulder lay thy glossy head!
Fear not, though the barley sack be empty,
Here's the half of [illegible]'s scanty bread.

Thou shalt have thy share of [illegible] my beauty!
And thou know'st my water skin is free:
Drink and [illegible], for the wells are distant,
And my strength and safety lie in thee.

Bend thy forehead now, to take my kisses!
Lift in love thy dark and splendid eye,
Thou art glad when Hassan mounts the [illegible]
Thou art proud he owns thee, so am I.

Let the sultan bring his boasted horses,
Prancing with their diamond-studded reins.
They, my darling, shall not match thy fleetness
When they course with thee the [illegible]

We have seen Damascus, O my beauty!
And the [illegible] of the pasha there:
What's their pomp and riches? Why, I would not Take them for a handful of thy hair!

AMERICAN CYCLISTS IN EUROPE

The Manager of the Touring Club Describes the Run from Paris to Zurich

[Copyright 1889, by The [illegible] Syndicate.]

ZURICH, August 15, 1889.

Our party of twenty seven reached this hospitable city in good order yesterday afternoon, and we are comfortably quartered at the Hotel Bellevue with the stars and stripes floating above its roof. The journey hither from Paris has been made in a leisurely way and has proved one of unmixed entertainment and enjoyment throughout. The landscape, and scenery we encountered, both in France and Switzerland, have recalled many a fragment of memories from forgotten picture galleries, and wherever we have passed, both townspeople and peasantry have vied in showing us invariable kindness and courtesy. To quote the expression of one of our party, "the trip from Paris to Zurich has been one continuous picnic."

There was a great crowd gathered before the Hotel de la Tamise, in the Rue d'Alger, to bid us good bye, as we bade adieu to Paris a short time ago. Baron Selly and Mr. and Mrs Wethingen, the latter two mounted on a "Tandem Safety," had kindly offered us their escort as far as Fontainebleau, and quite a number of the Paris wheelmen also accompanied our cavalcade to that point, making a jolly party that wheeled up at noon time at Nemours for lunch. Mounting again at two p. m., with fine weather and a splendid road, we [illegible] during the afternoon the historic "King's Tables," entered and traversed a section of the grand old forest, and reached Fontainebleau about five p. m., where we remained over the following day, Sunday, sight seeing and visiting the famous Chateau.

Fontainebleau was, for the time, full of infantry summoned to rifle practice, and the town was alive with [illegible], carrousels, hurdy-gurdys, and all manner of holiday entertainments, so that we were not sorry to leave. Finding the main highway closed on account of the military operations, we made a detour on leaving next [illegible] and afterwards regaining the post road, made a straight pull for Sens, which was reached in four hours time. The remainder of the day was passed in visiting the historic old church and in general sight seeing. It may be mentioned here that the president of the Fontainebleau Bicycle club accompanied us as far as this point, having with him a friend mounted on a tricycle. This latter gentleman furnished us the only real laugh we had had since leaving Paris, by suddenly and unaccountably taking a [illegible] over the [illegible] and landing in the ditch.

From Sens via Joigny to Tonnerre, we had a level country and fine roads, so that [illegible] of the party, Kirk, Brinsmade, White, Shaw, Levy and Schneider determined to go in for a "century" run and, in spite of a strong head wind, they accomplished it, running back from Joigny, after lunch, to Sens, then forward again through Joigny and on to Tonnerre, making a run of 100 mile in a day of ten hours.

We passed a pleasant night and forenoon at Tonnerre, chatting with many of the townspeople who were very sociable and kind, and, after lunch pushed on to Montbard, which was reached about 5 p. m. After visiting the ruins of the Chateau and discussing an excellent dinner, our party, all of whom felt infused with the patriotic spirit, gathered in front of the hotel and sang "Hail Columbia," "Star Spangled Banner," and other national songs. In ten minutes' time the street was so packed with people, a swarming mass of good natured and demonstrative listeners, that it was impossible for a vehicle to pass. Suddenly one of the party began singing to call for the "Marseillaise," a citoyen mounted a cask [illegible] and "Allons enfants de la patrie" in the approved style, and the immense crowd enthusiastically joined in the chorus. Then, in turn, some Frenchman in the crowd who was posted cried, "Chantez Yankee Doodle," whereupon our boys [illegible] the good old familiar strain, and it was applauded to the echo.

The next morning, our cavalcade went gaily out of Montbard, the bicycles profusely decorated with red, white and blue ribbons, and every small boy in town following us as long as his legs would carry him. We kept together, singing the national airs in chorus, as we whizzed across the country, and every one of us thinking lovingly of home. At St. Seine, where we lunched, we found the hotel dining room profusely decorated with the stars and stripes and the tricolor in honor of our arrival. A pleasant incident was a little speech by Mr. Esterbrook, who proposed the health of the president of the United States and followed it up with some timely remarks. Just at this juncture one of our party [illegible] who had [illegible] road and been obliged to come in apart was carried in triumphantly on the stalwart shoulders of Higgins, Brinsmade, Leavey and Cake, and received with a vociferous chorus of "He's a jolly good fellow."

We reached the Burgundian capital Dijon, between four and five in the afternoon, where arrangements had been made for a banquet at the Hotel de la Cloche. The room was handsomely decorated with our own and French flags, the menu and wines were excellent and a genuine American lemonade was provided for the prohibitionist members of the party. The health of the president was drunk standing, and appropriate speeches were made by Messrs. Hicks, Beals and Wilson.

Next day we visited the [illegible], the cathedral, the park and the other beautiful sights of the city, and in the afternoon pushed on to Dole, where we were handsomely entertained by a fellow bicyclist, formerly of Dijon, who now owns a concert hall at Dole. Next day we rode leisurely in the afternoon to Poligny where we had a night of horrors, with swarms of bed bugs, some of them as large as a soft shelled crab. It [illegible] of them didn't try to mount the [illegible] and ride off with them! As it was we all had to [illegible] on the floor, with our clothes on, and we shook off the dust of Poligny next day, vowing never to return.

We lunched at Champagnole, and as it was Sunday great crowds of sightseers collected about us. That afternoon we reached Morez, "coasting" down hill the entire distance for the last five miles, without touching a foot to the pedals. Here we had our first glimpse of the glorious scenery of the Juras. Next morning we had an up hill walk of eight miles to the Swiss [illegible] which we passed at Les Rousses.

Who will explain the mysteries of customs duties? Some of our party were required to deposit 20 francs duty each on their bicycles, receiving therefor a receipt on which the amount would be refunded to them by the customs officer at their point of exit from Switzerland; while others of the party simply rode by the custom house at Les Rousses, unhailed or molested in any way whatever. Curious people these custom house officials wherever you find them.

We found the Swiss roads equally good with those in France. Just after passing Faucille, a magnificent view, embracing the city and lake of Geneva and the distant Alps beyond, elicited general exclamations of surprise and delight. Passing on through Gex, we reached Geneva about noon and were soon duly installed in our quarters at the Hotel de la Post, where we remained as guests for two days. We were hospitably entertained at the Casino, on the second evening of our stay, by M. Brouel, chief [illegible] of the Geneva bicycle fraternity.

Then came a delightful trip by steamer on the placid and picturesque Lake Leman, which brought us to the historic castle of Chillon, where we spent a couple of hours inspecting the interior of that remarkable pile, including the dark cellar in which Bonivard passed so many weary years of imprisonment. Mr. Higgins, whose "Kodiac" is seldom idle, used this opportunity to jump into a small boat, and obtain a capital photograph of the castle from the water side.

We wheeled that night, via Villeneuve to Aigle, where we lodged, arriving on the next morning to Chateau d'Oex. At Gamboullez, where we halted for lunch, the aubergiste gravely informed us that his house was located 5,000 feet above the sea level, which, when we came to see our bill was evidently intended as a preliminary explanation of the corresponding height attained by his prices.

At Chateau d'Oex, we had a beautiful view of the moon rising above the mountains, and after a good night's rest arrived at Thun next day in time for lunch. The road thence along the lake shore, plentifully interspersed with tunnels, was novel and exceedingly picturesque, and we reached the Jungfrau hotel, at Interlaken, with appetites that made mine host open his eyes wide with surprise.

Thence we went into Lauterbrunnen, visited the two cascades, and ascended the mountains by a walk of two hours and a half to Murren, remaining there over Sunday. The day was rainy—the first unpleasant weather we had encountered since leaving Oxford six weeks before—and the party gladly availed themselves of [illegible] to remain [illegible] books and writing letters to friends at home.

The following morning an early descent was made to Lauterbrunnen where the machines had been left on Saturday—some of the party descending the mountain by sleds—and at [illegible] all were back at Interlaken again. The night was passed at the Kurhaus, at the summit of the Brunig pass, and next day the run of 24 miles to Lucerne was made in the surprisingly short space of two hours and a half. At Lucerne, the Lion, the Glacier Garden, and the other sights were duly inspected, [illegible] was taken at the Hotel du Lac; then by steamer to Vitznau by rail up the Rigi to the Kulm and down again, and then by wheel from Vitznau to Gersau for the night. Next day from Gersau, via Brunnen to Zug, where the scene of the disastrous landslide of years ago was visited, and whence, after lunch, a start was made over the mountain to the lake of Zurich and this city, which we reached in good trim.

We found our arrival had been anticipated and to-morrow, on the eve of our departure, a dinner is to be given in our honor by the Bicycle club of Zurich, at which the American [illegible], Mr. Catlin, the English consul, Mr. Angst, and a number of prominent wheelmen of this city have been invited to be present. The hospitality of Zurich [illegible] unbounded and we will carry away delightful memories of the kind reception rendered us here. To-morrow night we shall pass at the Falls of the Rhine, and thence go on through the Black Forest to Strassburg, Baden, Baden, Heidelberg, Wiesbaden, Coblentz, Cologne and Rotterdam, at which latter point our party will break up, [illegible] ship for home, and others proceeding to different destinations on the continent or in the British Islands.

F. A. ELWELL,
Manager of the Cyclists' Touring Club.

Convention Call.

The 10th annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held at Fort Collins. Date, September 24th, 25th and 26th. Place, First Presbyterian church. Time of first meeting, Tuesday, 3 o'clock p. m.

According to our constitution "the annual meeting shall be composed of the general officers of the union, superintendents of state departments, [illegible] and district [illegible] of local unions and two elected delegates from each local union."

Dear comrades, shall we not make this convention the very best of the ten? To do this every union must be represented. Will you not make special efforts to ward this end?

It is expected that Miss Ida C. Clothier, of Boston, national organizer of Young Woman's Christian Temperance unions, will address us one evening. Papers and discussions on interesting topics will be given, superintendents of [illegible] will present reports.

Railroad rates will probably be granted.

Delegates and those expecting to attend will correspond with Mrs. H. J. Far[illegible], Fort Collins. May we come up to this annual meeting filled with "Faith, hope and love," and in His [illegible] be able to plan great plans for the [illegible] year's work.

MRS. C. D. H. THOMPSON, Pres.

On Friday night as Mr. Samuel Bradford was returning from Manitou in a light buggy he was run into by a heavy carriage. Mr. Bradford's buggy was wrecked and his horse injured, but he fortunately escaped with a few scratches.

WARNING TO PARENTS.

Why Do American Women in Europe Go Astray?

Lucy Hooper Answers the Question in a Letter.

The Notorious Mrs. Blackford—The Bejeweled Mme. Musard.

A Warning to Parents About to Send Their Girls Abroad.

PARIS, August 19, 1889.

Why do American women in Europe go astray? is the question that the American resident abroad has of late years been frequently called upon to ask. Various scandals with transatlantic girls or women as their heroines have greatly obtruded themselves prominently upon public notice. And it is a melancholy fact that these histories are far from being the first of that nature that have shocked or startled the American communities in Europe.

Naturally one is impelled on hearing of the misconduct of one's country woman to ask oneself the predisposing cause of such misconduct. For the American woman of the educated class has literally no reason for going astray. She is so shielded and hedged around by public usages and public opinion, that, to take the fatal leap from the pinnacle of consideration to the depths of infamy, seems, to an outside [illegible], to be one that should be well nigh impossible. And yet it is taken, and that far more often than the world imagines. Again we ask ourselves why?

Whenever a fresh history of this nature becomes public, the newspaper reporters generally take the ground that the erring woman was impelled to her misdoing by the overwhelming influence of love. This is especially the case if the female in question chances to be young and beautiful. An [illegible] deal of false sentimentality and misdirected sympathy is then bestowed upon the heroine of the story, somewhat in the style of that which is accorded to an assassin who has been tried and [illegible] to death. As none of the sympathizers have the time or the opportunity to bestow a thought on the relatives of the murderer's victim, so are neither sympathy nor consideration shown for the [illegible] whose husband and children, or parents and sisters, are left to deplore, too often with broken hearts, the deeds of her who has wrecked her home. And the ground taken, that intense and overmastering love has driven the erring one from the paths of rectitude, is almost invariably a mistake. Love has very little to do with the matter in the great majority of instances.

Ambition [illegible] times wrecks the lives of the young girls who come from the United States to study art or music. The mistress of a great painter or a famous impresario has far better opportunities of winning [illegible] and fame in her [illegible] profession than have the young girls who plod patiently and conscientiously at their studies, and who try to make their way by the sheer force of talent and industry merely.

For these last, who form, to the honor of our nation be it said, the large majority of the young American girl students abroad, success is far harder to achieve than it is for their less highly principled colleagues. They are thrust aside in the majority of cases by their competitors, less talented than themselves, [illegible], who make of their laxity of principle a stepping stone to fame, and in some instances to fortune. There are at least three of the American prima donnas now flourishing in Europe, whose careers have been begun and maintained on this doleful basis.

But the chief [illegible] that leads any American woman astray in an inborn tendency to vice. It is, happily, very rare, and it may or may not be a hereditary tendency; but as a rule it is nothing of the kind. Women, sprung from families where every female member in their own and the preceding generation have been far above reproach, have spurned all the traditions of their race, and have trodden the paths of evil with unswerving feet.

Take, for instance, the case of the all notorious Mrs. Blackford, whose career [illegible] than one chapter to the annals of European scandal. She was born of a highly respectable family of Pennsylvania, her father having been a Presbyterian clergyman of high standing. She was related to several prominent and celebrated personages of her native state. She was [illegible] of exquisite beauty and of [illegible] irresistible fascination. One of the leading lawyers of Philadelphia, who had charge of her affairs after the death of her husband, related to the writer the following story, which depicts this woman, and others of her class, better than whole pages of analysis and description could do.

After the settling up of the deceased Mr. Blackford's estate only a few thousand dollars remained for his widow and her little girl. "Now Mrs. Blackford," quoth her legal adviser, "you are a young and very beautiful woman. Go to Washington, engage a [illegible] suite of rooms, and entertain elegantly. There are so many wealthy single gentlemen attracted to Washington during the session of Congress that you will have no difficulty in winning a rich husband." In language too coarse and too vile to admit of transcription here, his lovely client announced her determination of devoting herself to a life of wickedness. She came to Europe and she fulfilled her intent.

In this most famous of her infamous class there was no trace of the false sentimentality that lures honest women to weep over the woes of La Dame aux Camélias. She knew neither shame nor [illegible], nor [illegible] the one holy instinct that often lingers in the hearts of women otherwise wholly depraved, namely that of maternal love. There was no reason whatever for her entrance upon the path that leadeth unto perdition. In contemplating the career and the character of such a creature, one is tempted to believe in the old legends of infants [illegible] in their cradle by the fairies who took away the human child and left an unnatural imp in its stead.

Another instance well known to American residents in Europe is that of [illegible] who came hither from the United States ostensibly to study music. She was past the age of [illegible]. She came of a thoroughly respectable family. She was in command of an income sufficient for all her wants, and she was placed under the chaperonage of a well known American family living in the city in which she was to pursue her studies. Without any reason and without any temptation she hurled herself headlong into the ranks of the demi-monde. Her career made more than one city ring with its scandals. Like Mrs. Blackford she scorned hypocrisy and openly announced her intention of living as she liked and doing what she pleased. Her still brilliant but now largely artificial beauty occasionally attracts the glance of her former friends. They knew their fair countrywoman in the days of her maidenly and unassuming manners and mode of existence in past years. Now, like Dante in his journey through the inferno, they can but look on her and then pass on. She has no need of help or pity. She leads a very gay life, dresses superbly and boasts openly of the luxuries and influence that she enjoys.

But across the Atlantic there is a quiet home over which a dark shadow has fallen, cast by this seemingly brilliant career. And how will it end? Presumably as all the rest have ended. For it is the rarest thing in the world for an American woman of good social standing, who goes astray, to close her existence in anything like luxury or even comfort.

Mrs. Blackford died of drink when she was only a little over forty. The notorious Mrs. Beecher, who fled from the United States, after trying to shoot a former lover, did indeed achieve marriage with a titled European. But she has since mysteriously disappeared, and no one knows what has become of her.

A beautiful and gifted young American prima donna, who went some years ago to sing in Russia, and who became the mistress of the heir to an aristocratic family, returned to Paris and died here of typhoid fever soon after the birth of her infant. A terrible and tragic incident marked the catastrophe of her brief erring life. The physician, called in to attend her, telegraphed to her mother in America as soon as the case assumed a hopeless form. The poor old lady reached Paris only a few hours after her unhappy child had expired. She knew nothing of her wrong doing, and believed her to be still the fair innocent girl that had left her [illegible] few years before. The nurse, thinking that the young mother had been a married woman, brought, as a consolation, the little infant to the aged woman. The wretched and bereaved parent realized the situation at a glance, and fell fainting to the [illegible].

The late Mme. Musard was one of the few American women in Europe that closed a life of wrong doing in splendor and luxury. Up to the last the gorgeousness of her hotel, and her dresses, and her jewels, were the talk of Paris. The sale of the latter attracted crowds to the Hotel Drouot for a week. The whole of the two principal rooms in that great auction mart was lined with show cases where sparkled this dazzling collection, a fortune in itself, beginning with the Empress Eugenie's bridal necklace of large pearls, and going down to hand-mirrors and glove buttoners set with gems. But she was neither well born nor well bred. She began life as a dish washer and stair scrubber at a hotel in Boston. She closed it in a mad house, her once lovely face distorted by a stroke of facial paralysis which had caused the permanent closing of one of her eyes several years before. Yet, inasmuch as she died neither poor nor forsaken, her end may be considered as more fortunate than that of those of her countrywomen who have occupied a similar position.

It is impossible to speak in terms of too strong reprobation of the conduct of those parents and guardians in the United States who suffer young American girls to come to Europe, unchaperoned and unguarded, to study painting or music. Yet, in the majority of such cases our girls pursue a straightforward unswerving course, heeding neither the temptations nor the demoralizing influences that may beset their path. Here, again the power of an inborn temperament is manifest for good, as in other instances we have cited it as being for evil.

A beautiful young American actress, not eighteen years of age, who had been on the stage ever since her earliest childhood, who supported a rapacious family out of her slender earnings, and who was often forced to do without not only the luxuries, but the comforts of life, was once asked by one of her comrades how it was that, tempted as she had doubtless often been, she had never gone astray. The young girl paused and meditated for a moment, before replying. "Well," she answered finally, "the fact is, I just couldn't." Even the great realist Zola never drew a picture more true to life than that of "Denise," the girl heroine of Bonheur des Dames, who resists the influence of poverty, and temptation, and even that of her overwhelming love for the man who loves her, simply because the inborn purity of her nature will not suffer her to yield.

This peculiar shield and safeguard is that [illegible] by the vast majority of American women. Alas for those who have it not, and who cherish in their [illegible] holy dove that symbol[illegible] of the Queen of Heaven, but the poisonous serpent, bred amid the rank miasma that reeks from out the portals of hell. [illegible]

The Delmonico restaurant will hereafter be kept open day and night, and will furnish oysters and short orders at all hours. This will be a great convenience to the public and deserves a liberal patronage.

The tramp who used a scale weight on his comrade in Woods' grocery store at [illegible] on Friday, was yesterday fined $10 and [illegible] by Justice Shideler.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

A Brief History of the Public Schools—List of Teachers for the Coming Term.

On Tuesday the public schools of this city will open for the fall term. It may not be uninteresting to the readers of the Gazette to look briefly over the history of our public schools, the progress of which has always been a matter of pride to the city.

The first public school of the city was opened in a frame building on Cascade avenue near the High school building. In 1872 school district No. 11 was organized since which time the progress of the schools has been uniform and rapid. In 1874 the High school building, a large stone structure, was erected at a cost of $25,000. At its completion a graded course of study was for the first time established. In 1879 the largely increased attendance made additional buildings necessary, and two frame school houses were erected, one on North Weber street and the other on East Platte avenue. In 1884 the Lowell school, a substantial brick building was built at a cost of $20,000. The additional room thus obtained sufficed only for a short time, however. In 1886 the taxpayers voted bonds to the amount of $40,000 for the erection of two brick structures named Garfield and Lincoln schools. Each of the four buildings now occupied is two stories high, containing large, well ventilated rooms. Much care has been given to the heating and lighting of them and all are supplied with modern school furniture. The number of teachers now employed is twenty three. We give below a table of the increase in the enrollment during the past twelve years.

College Notes.

COLORADO COLLEGE, Aug. 31, 1889.

A number of young men and women have indicated their purpose to attend the college this fall, who will be more or less dependent upon their own exertions for support.

If there are those in our city who are desirous of securing the services of any of these students for a limited time each day, they will confer a great favor by notifying me at their early convenience.

WILLIAM F. SLOCUM, JR.

Base Ball.

On Monday morning (Labor day) at half past nine o'clock, the Athletic club's base ball team will meet an amateur team composed of members of the Bankers' Base Ball club of Denver, with the assistance of several crack base ball men from the Denver Cricket club. The Athletics have made up their team of the best amateurs in the city, and will be remembered as having won [illegible] over the P[illegible] team some two months ago. The Denvers will have with them Berger, a fine amateur pitcher, also a fine catcher, and Denckla, a rattling in fielder, who will play second base. The Athletics' team will be made up as follows: Rogers c., Atkinson p., C. Howbert 1b., Goddard 2b., Lent 3b., De Witt s. s., Ferguson l. f., Storer c. f., Tucker or Hamilton r. f. J. De Witt, who will play short stop for the Athletics, is a brother of T. De Witt, who played short for the Springs last year. He played a fine game for Hapeman's team on Thursday last and is said to be quite an equal to the old short stop. The admission will be put at 25 cents, including grand stand.

JACKSON-CROWELL GAME.

Great sport is promised at the Athletic grounds this afternoon where the fellow workers of the Jackson Hill company will meet the Crowell boys at 2:30 o'clock. Both companies have good ball players and each one will turn out their best team. The proceeds from the game will be for the benefit of two sick firemen. The object is a worthy one and there should be a large attendance.

The Cricket Match.

Fine weather favored the cricketers at their second venture yesterday, which, on this occasion ended in a decisive victory for the home team. The Capitols of Denver won the toss and decided to put the Athletics to the bat. King and DeCoursey opened the defense and soon settled down to good work. King was in great batting form, treating all the bowlers with [illegible]. The captain on the other hand played very steadily, and in spite of a very [illegible] blow on the hand from a ball, [illegible] at the bat for nearly two hours, but was eventually caught for a well played 20. King's score of 56 was an exhibition [illegible] cricket, such as had [illegible] been seen in this state before. In trying to drive a "yorker" he was ultimately bowled, with the score standing at 94. Ermatinger, the next comer, failed to score, and Douglas joined the captain and the runs came fast.

The captain was however shortly dismissed by a catch at point and Clough followed. Two runs later the latter was bowled and Collbran joined Douglas and started in to make runs in the usual lively manner. Douglas next succumbed after making a useful 9 and Collbran was shortly after dismissed for the same number. The next man Hamp played good cricket for his seven runs. Strothers next wielded the willow and played very good cricket being not out for 15 runs. Lent followed and immediately drove the leather twice to the boundary. Hamilton who next took the bat was retired by a splendid ball from Gammon causing a confusion in his timber yard. Parrish made a pretty hit but shortly fell to Longridge, the inning closing for 146 runs, the largest score ever made in the west. Mr. Gammon's bowling is deserving of special mention, taking 7 wickets at small cost, and was well backed up by Longridge.

The Capitols started with an uphill game to play, and although Gammon (22) and Freeman (11) did their utmost to avert defeat, the total score of the visitors fell short of the home team's by 84 runs. Strothers as usual took a fair share of the wickets and was ably backed up by both King and Hamp. The Denver men were compelled to follow on and when time was called five of their wickets had fallen for 40 runs, half of which were credited to Freeman, who in both innings showed good form. Vidler, who is accounted one of the best batsmen in Denver, was got rid of in both innings by good catches on the part of Parrish.

Appended is the full score.

The department was again called out yesterday by the fire alarm which sounded about half past one o'clock. It was found that the fire was in a tent in the rear of the Weber hall yard occupied by Prof. Sey[illegible]. Before assistance could reach the place, however, the tent was wrapped in flames and the contents were soon almost a total loss. A lot of valuable [illegible], the furniture and other articles were destroyed. The prof. had recently purchased a handsome upright piano which was badly burned and it is feared ruined. The whole loss will probably reach $300. The fire was started while Mrs. Seymour, the professor's mother, was lighting a gasoline stove at [illegible] in the tent, an ignited match having been accidentally thrown into the canvass. The flames spread so rapidly that Mrs. Seymour was unable to extinguish them and everything was in a blaze in a few minutes.

Mr. Edward Harrigan, supported by his New York company, will be the next regular attraction at the opera house. They are on their return from their California trip. Mr. Harrigan has won the distinction of having played the greatest engagement of any actor who has ever visited San Francisco. He presented eight different and original [illegible] dramas, and played to crowded houses during his eight weeks' engagement, the last being the banner week of the season.

To-morrow is Labor day and will be very generally observed as a holiday. The banks will all be closed. The post-office will be open only between the hours of twelve and one o'clock. The carriers will not make their usual [illegible]. All the barber shops will close their doors at noon. A [illegible] of business houses will also give their employes a half holiday.

At the meeting of the fire department last night it was decided to run an excursion to the National Guard encampment at Fort Logan, near Denver, on next Sunday, September 8th. The committee on arrangements are: [illegible] Oscar Roberts, C. B. Seldomridge, W. H. D. Merrill, Will Kirkwood and C. B. P[illegible], chairman. The committee has full power to act and the rate will be published in a day or two.

Rev. Richard Montague will preach at the Baptist church at 11 a. m. on "The Unconcealable Christ," at 7:30 p. m. on "A Sure Defense." Sunday school at 3 p. m. Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p. m. Sunday school at Roswell at 2:30 p. m. Preaching by Rev. Dr. Crowle at 7:30 p. m.

The Journeymen Stone Masons' union of this city held a meeting last evening and elected officers for the next term. They also decided that after September 12th eight hours will be [illegible] as a day's work and $4.00 as the price per day for all union men. See their advertisement and notice to contractors elsewhere in this paper.

The lawn social by the Young People's Society of the Congregational church to be held at Mr. F. L. Martin's next Friday evening is very promising. All are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served on the grounds and music furnished by an orchestra engaged for the purpose.

Messrs. Browning & Evans, No. 26 West Huerfano street, have recently purchased the remainder of the stock of Arts Bros., in the second story of the Armory building, and can [illegible] date all in their line of goods, and are also prepared to furnish storage for any one desiring it.

THE RESORT.

News Items from Manitou and Green Mountain Falls.

MANITOU SPRINGS.

Mr. C. W. Dunham, of Brattleboro Vt., is a guest at the Barker.

Mr. J. L. Bradford, an extensive cotton merchant of New Orleans, is at the Barker for a prolonged stay.

Mr. O. S. Lyford of Chicago, general manager of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, is registered at the Barker.

Major O. W. Ballard, a prominent attorney of Chicago, his wife and son are among the recent arrivals at the Cliff.

Chief Justice J. C. Helm of the supreme court of Colorado, was in Manitou yesterday and registered at the Cliff.

Mr. S. F. Maltby, of the Colorado Coal and Iron company is down from the capital city and registered at the Barker.

Mr. Galgano, leader of the string band, has signed a contract with the Cliff house to play at that hotel until February 1.

Dr. J. G. Haskell, a prominent physician of Lawrence, Kas., is at the Barker with his wife. Dr. Haskell was in Manitou four years ago.

The Mansions gave its last hop of the season last night. Many guests were present and the hop was a success as all hops at The Mansions have been.

Mrs. S. S. Curtis, Miss Katharine Lynn Curtis and Carita Curtis, of Omaha, have returned from a trip "Around the Circle" and are again at The Mansions.

The regular services will be held to-day at the Congregational church. Rev. George Michael, the pastor, returned yesterday from a short vacation and will occupy the pulpit.

The Ruxton is entertaining John D. Parker, chaplain of the 7th cavalry and two battalions of artillery, at Fort Riley, Kas. He will make a sojourn of a week or ten days at the resort.

Mr. Hang made larger sales at the Pike's Peak bazar yesterday than any day for the past four years he has been in Manitou. He announces that all his goods are marked down for the remainder of the season.

Such is the increasing demand for iron water that Manager W. E. Smiley has put an extra force of men on. The bottling is now done constantly where heretofore it was done at night only at the spring so as not to interfere with the many who come during the day to drink.

A party of gentlemen, S. N. Walker, Paul Francke, S. S. McCord and Richard Montgomery Serast, of St. Joseph, arrived at The Mansions last night to spend Sunday. They are en route to the wilds of Colorado on a hunting trip, and had their guns and dogs with them.

GREEN MOUNTAIN FALLS.

Mrs. R. A. Legee of Denver to-day secured a fine [illegible] lot.

The Misses Barlow of Colorado Springs are guests over Sunday of their cousin Mrs. Hall.

Mr. Charles Rh[illegible] of Philadelphia, a minister of the Society of Friends, with his family, is being entertained at the hotel for a few days.

Mr. J. M. Madge of Green Mountain Falls has invented a [illegible] ingenious lantern for the dwellers in tents. Its many advantages encourage his securing a patent.

Master and Miss Barnes gave a children's dancing party, Thursday evening, at their cottage home on the [illegible]. About twenty were present. Prof. Natschke furnished the [illegible].

Asthmatic and hay fever patients now at the Falls are very desirous of spending the month of September. The invigorating air and perfect sunshine in this locality are very beneficial to invalids who need to be away from the dust of city.

The G. M. F. Co. are introducing a new system of waterworks, the settler is now being built and the 12 inch pipes are on the spot. When laid the town will be abundantly supplied with pure water from Pike's Peak. Both canons furnish an immense flow of water, [illegible] a large city. In fact, the amount of water is not second to the supply of Colorado Springs.

THE GAZETTE.

SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1889

Don't f... the Jackson-Crowell ball game to ... afternoon at 3.30.

The funeral of Albert R. Ballou occurred at Philadelphia Pa., yesterday.

Mr Geo H Hayes, who has been visiting his brother, Mr E. O. Hayes, left for the east yesterday.

President Slocum will preach this morning and evening at the Methodist church, south, at the usual hours.

The popularity of Manitou mineral waters is constantly growing. The advertisement of the company will be found elsewhere.

The evening service with churches will commence at half past seven o'clock hereafter instead of at eight as during the summer months.

Harry McAllister leaves this evening on the Rock Island road for Philadelphia. He will enter Swarthmore college, Pennsylvania, on the 10th inst.

At the Presbyterian church services will be held at 11 o'clock in the forenoon and 7.30 o'clock in the evening. Rev. Mr. Black will preach at both services.

R. S. Howell, who has been visiting friends here during the summer, leaves to day to resume his position with the Wells Fargo Express company at Cañon City.

The local branch of the Colorado Humane society have opened an office in the postoffice block and hung out a sign. The office is in room No. 5, and all complaints should be left there.

The usual monthly meeting of the Bellevue Sanitarium society will be held to morrow, Monday, the 2nd of September, at 4 o'clock, in the parlor of the Grace church rectory.

Dr Cajori, graduate student at the Johns Hopkins university and professor of mathematics at the Tulane university at New Orleans, has accepted a position in the scientific department of the college.

Miona Wright Cranwell, of the New York Shakespeare club, a well known humorous and dramatic reader, will give an evening of recitals and costume impersonations at The Antlers on Saturday evening, September 7th.

Julius Pearse, chief of the Denver fire department, with his wife, were visitors in the city yesterday. This is the first time in several years that Mr. Pearse has been in the city and he expressed himself ... and ... at the progress and development of the place.

At the South Congregational church the sacrament of the Lord's supper will be observed for the first time to day at 11 o'clock. Please take note of the change in the hour of Sunday school, which meets at 10 o'clock. A public service will be held in the evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Miss Clara B..., sister of the well known elocutionist Miss Emma V. ..., died on Friday evening of typhoid fever, which she contracted in the ... Miss Bo... was brought to the city some days ago, apparently convalescent, but a relapse occurred, which ended in her death.

Willie, the infant son of Mr. L. J. Waite died yesterday morning. Mr. Waite's many friends will regret to hear of his loss. The funeral will be held this ... at the residence of the family, No. 23 North Weber street, at 10 o'clock. Friends of the family are invited to attend.

While not officially stated it is understood that the bids for the construction of the Pike's Peak cogwheel road have not been satisfactory and that the company will proceed with the construction of the road under its own supervision. This will probably prove more expensive than by contract, but the officials think it will prove better in the end.

Miss Eaton, daughter of the late Dr. E... of the Presbyterian church at Palmyra, New York, and niece of Hon. John Eaton, United States commissioner of education, has accepted the position of instructor in modern languages at Colorado college. She has had a number of years of successful experience as a teacher, and is just returning from special studies in Europe.

There has been a good deal of complaint against people who are butchering cattle without filing their official bonds. Sheriff Jackson called the attention of a reporter yesterday to the fact that the laws are strict in requiring all persons slaughtering cattle to file their official bonds in the office of the county clerk. Unless more careful attention is given to this law some prosecutions may be expected.

Manager Nye will open the fall season at the opera house in about two weeks with the popular actor Mr Edward Harrigan and his New York company, to be followed by the distinguished actress Rose Coghlan, "Salsbury's Troubadours," "Stowaway," Mr. Thomas Keene, Campbell Opera company, "Brass Monkey," Patti Rosa, Rosina Vokes, "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and other strong attractions.

Services at the First Congregational church, corner of Tejon and St. Vrain streets at 11 a. m. and 5 p. m. In the morning the communion of the Lord's supper will be observed. At the vesper service at 5 o'clock the pastor, Rev. Jas B. Gregg, will give the sixth in the series of sermons on "Seven Walks in Ephesians." The subject will be "Walk in Good Works." The Society of Christian Endeavor will meet at 4 o'clock. There will be no service in the evening.

The Woman's Educational society has $2200 already pledged for the erection of a Girls' hall. This hall will be built near the college as soon as a sufficient sum is raised. To aid in increasing this fund, and as an opening of the dormitory, a household bazar will be held on September 20th. The "days" represented will prove attractive and every article for sale will be useful. "Every week makes the hall, for which the bazar will be held, more a greater necessity. Applications for a good home for girls who wish to attend the college, grow more numerous as the opening of the ... approaches.

AGENT FOR AUSTIN BLUFF LOTS. The finest suburban residence location —combining view of mountain and plain —in the state. Beautiful parks, overgrown with large pine trees, unequalled as a health location; pure air, pure water, no smoke, no dust, plenty of sunshine. Lots in this beautiful suburb are large size, from one to four acres, being thus well adapted for fine residences. Only twenty minutes drive from center of our city. A motor line is already projected and will no doubt be built this coming season. Do not fail to examine this locality before purchasing. Carriage always in attendance to show property.

ALSO AGENT for the most desirable lots in Boulder Heights Addition. We handle only first class properties, and can guarantee satisfaction in every case. Buy only the best. If it does not pay you to invest in a desirable locality it certainly will not pay you to invest at all. Choice properties, improved and unimproved, in all parts of the city.

THE STREET CAR LINE is now being extended up to the Boston Land Co tract, so that parties wishing low-priced properties in a very desirable locality cannot do better than to examine these. Lots on Cascade avenue only $250.

FOR SALE OR RENT. The Large Residence known as THE PINES, in MONUMENT PARK. Seven sleeping rooms; good water; 160 acres of land. This very desirable property can be rented furnished at a low figure to desirable party, or sold at a Bargain. No better location for boarders in the County. Trains on the D. & R. G. R. R. pass this place almost every hour of the day.
